6.1 Vocabulary: Tourism (1 tiết)

6.1.1 Vocabulary: Tourism collocations

What is a collocation?

A collocation is a combination of words that are commonly used together in a language. These combinations sound natural to native speakers and are often predictable. Collocations can be made up of various types of word pairings or groupings, such as:

- Adjective + Noun: "strong coffee," "heavy rain"
- Verb + Noun: "make a decision," "catch a bus"
- Noun + Noun: "a piece of advice," "a bar of chocolate"
- Adverb + Adjective: "deeply concerned," "highly unlikely"
- Verb + Adverb: "run quickly," "speak fluently"

Here are some tourism collocations

Return ticket: A ticket for a journey to a destination and back again.

Single ticket: A ticket for a journey to a destination without a return trip.

Carry-on bag: A small piece of luggage that passengers can carry onto an airplane and keep in the cabin.

Public transport: Systems of buses, trains, subways, and other forms of transportation that are available to the general public.

Tour guide: A person who leads tourists and provides them with information about places of interest.

Book in advance: To arrange and confirm a reservation or ticket before the actual date.

Local food: Cuisine that is typical of a particular area or region.

Local people: Residents or inhabitants of a particular place.

Buy souvenir: To purchase a gift that serves as a reminder of a visit to a place.

Go sightseeing: To visit and see places of interest in a particular location.

6.1.2 Reading: Tourism questionnaire

Ask students to look at the questionnaire and tick the things they do. Ask them to read the questionnaire and find words to match these definitions

1. a ticket for travel to a place and back return
2. a ticket for travel to a place (but not back) single
3. you carry this bag onto the plane carry-on
4. telephone for a hotel room (or reserve it online) before you arrive book
5. special objects you buy on holiday
souvenirs
6. give your bag to the airline so they can put it on the plane check in
7. looking at famous and interesting places
sightseeing
8. pay to use something (e.g. a car) for a period of time
rent

Divide students into pairs. One student asks the questions from Tourist A, and the other asks from Tourist B.

Students take turns asking and answering the questions, ticking the boxes based on their partner's responses.

6.2 Tourism advice (2 tiết)

6.2.1 Grammar: Should

- We use 'should' to say that something is right or is the best thing to do.

The structure is:

S (I/You/We/They/He/She/It) + should + base verb.

- The sun is shining and the temperature is 40°C. You should wear sun cream.
- Mary can't speak the local language. She should learn some words.

- We use 'shouldn't' to say that something is not right or is a bad thing to do. The structure is:

S (I/You/We/They/He/She/It) + shouldn't + base verb.

- This shop is expensive. You shouldn't buy your souvenirs here.
- Public transport is slow to the city centre. You shouldn't take the bus.

- We use question using 'should' to ask for advice. The structure is:

Should + S (I/You/We/They/He/She/It) + base verb?

- Should I take the bus?
- Should I go in the water?

	Structure	Example
(+)	S + should + base verb	He should do more exercise.
(-)	S + shouldn't + base verb	He shouldn't stay up so late.
(?)	Should + S + base verb?	Should we take the bus?

6.2.2 Speaking: Giving tourism advice

Ask students to work in pairs. Choose a country you know well and write advice for a tourist. Include these topics.

- weather
- famous sites
- local food
- transport
- language
- shopping

Work with another pair. Take turns to give your advice and ask each other questions.

A: You should go to the beaches because the weather is hot in this country.

B: Should I take sun cream?

Example

1. You should pack light clothing because Vietnam is usually hot.
2. Tourists should bring raincoats during the rainy season from May.
3. You should wear sunscreen to protect yourself from strong sunlight.
4. Visitors should stay hydrated and drink plenty of water daily.
5. You should check the weather forecast before planning outdoor activities.

6.3 Should I go there (2 tiết)

6.3.1 Reading: Should I go there

Read the article. Match the paragraphs (1-5) with the topics (a-e)

- First read all of the topics. Underline the key words in each topic.

- a. why Antarctica is a good holiday destination
- b. the writer's problem
- c. negative changes in Antarctica
- d. which holidays the writer likes and doesn't like
- e. the positive work of tourism in Antarctica

- Read each paragraph carefully and minutely. Underline the words/phrases in the paragraphs that are related to each topic.

- a. why Antarctica is a good holiday destination (paragraph 3)

Antarctica should be perfect for me: huge, quiet, no cities, no pollution, no noisy traffic, lots of wildlife.

- b. the writer's problem (paragraph 2)

I don't want to go somewhere and see lots of other tourists. I want to be the only person there.

- c. negative changes in Antarctica (paragraph 4)

As a result of so many tourists, some people think the numbers of wild animals and birds are decreasing.

- d. which holidays the writer likes and doesn't like (paragraph 1)

He likes: something exciting outdoors (backpacking, safaris, swimming with dolphins)

He doesn't like: holidays with hotels, beaches, swimming pools, sightseeing

e. the positive work of tourism in Antarctica (paragraph 5)

Cruise companies teach passengers about the wildlife and give money to environmental organizations in the region.

Grammar: Indefinite pronouns

Some of the indefinite pronouns in English are:

anybody	everybody	nobody	somebody
anyone	everyone	no one	someone
anything	everything	nothing	something
anywhere	everywhere	nowhere	somewhere

We use indefinite pronouns to refer to people or things without saying exactly who or what they are. We use pronouns ending in -body or -one for people, and pronouns ending in -thing for things and -where for places.

Examples:

✓ Everybody enjoyed the concert.

✓ I opened the door but there was no one at home.

✓ It was a very clear day. We could see everything.

- We use a singular verb after an indefinite pronoun:

✓ Everybody loves Sally.

- When we refer back to an indefinite pronoun, we normally use a plural pronoun:

✓ Everybody enjoyed the concert. They stood up and clapped.*

✓ I will tell somebody that dinner is ready. They have been waiting a long time.

❖ Notes:

- In negative clauses, we use pronouns with *no-, not pronouns with any-:

✓ Nobody came. (NOT ~~Anybody didn't come.~~)*

- We do not use another negative in a clause with nobody, no one or nothing:

✓ Nobody came. (NOT ~~Nobody didn't come.~~)*

✓ Nothing happened. (NOT ~~Nothing didn't happen.~~)*

- We can add 's to an indefinite pronoun to make a possessive:

✓ They were staying in somebody's house.

✓ Is this anybody's coat?

- We use else after indefinite pronouns to refer to other people or things:

✓ All the family came, but no one else.

✓ If Michael can't come, we'll ask somebody else.

✓ I think this is somebody else's coat.
